WINSTON SALEM, NC, TRAINING COMPANY PROGRAM USED BY NAVAJO NATION

The Navajo Nation, headquartered in Window Rock, AZ, has begun a series of training sessions for the 150 staff members of the Navajo Nation Program for Self Reliance (NNPSR). The training was developed by Sanford Danziger, MD and Thomas White, JD, founders of TRP Enterprises, Inc., in Winston-Salem, NC. The program is entitled "Becoming a Totally Responsible Person®", and is nationally known as "TRP® training."

NNPSR provides support, resources, training and direction to eligible clients who reside on the Navajo Nation. The program's mission is to serve and empower all families to become self-reliant through personal responsibility.

The training is being conducted by Richard Roddy, a certified TRP® trainer, from Tucson. He has trained approximately 2000 Native Americans in the program including many Navajo, over 200 leaders of the Cree Nation in Canada and many more in the southwestern US, Canada, and Alaska.

The NNPSR staff works with their 4200 clients to help them move from dependency on social programs and become self-reliant, productive, and effective members of their communities. The TRP® program will help the staff stay positive, productive and effective and avoid burnout in very challenging circumstances, thus enhancing their ability to be of service to their constituents. By the end of August, 2010, all 10 NNPSR field offices and the support staff will have been trained.

NNPSR Department Manager Roxanne Gorman says: "I have personally experienced the training twice and gained new insights each time. The principles are the same as the traditional teachings taught by the holy people of our tribe, and that is to promote and encourage responsibility and to pursue personal goals in becoming self-reliant. The benefits we have obtained from the workshop have been enormous for our team to apply to a positive work environment that will improve our delivery of service to our clients and their dependents."
